FULL STORY

AN ITALIAN FEAST IN ROMAN GARDENS

After a short orientation tour of Rome, we arrive for a sumptuous welcome lunch at the Parco dei Principi Hotel – also our home for the next three nights. One of the only hotels in Rome with an outdoor pool, the Parco dei Principi, with its Royal Italian décor, is a calm oasis away from the hustle and bustle of the city streets of Rome.

After a couple of hours in the sun, our first night dinner kicks the trip off in true Italian style with a huge feast served in Roman open-air gardens. The food and wine are seemingly endless, boasting generous platters of cheese, meats, salads and pasta to name a few. Under the watchful eye of Chef Luigi and his team, we also have the fun of spinning our own pizza dough and cooking them in traditional ovens. Munching slices of hand-crafted pizza to the sound of a local five-piece band certainly sets the trip off to a strong start. And to cap off a fabulous, immersive and truly Italian first night, a group of pizza acrobats dazzle with some unusual but nevertheless very impressive entertainment. Who knew you could throw a pizza that high?

HAND-PICKED GELATO

What better way to spend the first morning than with a walking tour by one of our knowledgeable and charismatic guides. Sharing historic tales, we take in wonderful sights including Trevi Fountain, the Spanish Steps and Piazza Navona to name but three. There's the obligatory mid-tour gelato stop at the superb Giolitti, the oldest gelato shop in Rome, too. Having selected from the tempting and colourful array we perch outside for little more than a minute while expert waiters bring 10 delicate glasses of gelato out at a time – an impressive act of choreography in itself.

A well-deserved lunch stop, and a cold beer then awaits at the fabulous Casa Bleve, a famous Rome trattoria – taken exclusively for us.

Then it's back to the hotel for an afternoon at leisure. With such a busy day under our belt it's just a short stroll from hotel bedrooms to poolside tables for dinner. It's a beautiful and balmy open-air setting, with tables set up around the outdoor pool, ambient lighting set to classical Italian background music.

A PRIVATE PALACE IN ROME

A tour of the Colosseum is in store for day three, again accompanied by our second-to-none guides who help us to visualise the magnificent structure and its gruesome history. Then it's onward to lunch where Mama's famous lasagne comes accompanied by a fine Chianti chased down by home-made tiramisu. We sit, chat, eat and drink before heading back to the hotel for a dip in the pool. Our fantastic trip is topped by a gala dinner held in the Palazzo Colonna, a glorious and private palace in Rome. Taken privately for dinner we can marvel at the magnificent palace in all its glory – including a walk through the breathtaking Gallery for drinks and canapes in the beautiful palace garden. A sumptuous four-course dinner, fine wines and impeccable service is enjoyed in the spectacular ballroom with three tenors evoking tears of emotion as they fill the room with operatic indulgence. Truly a night that will live long in the memory.

This is an example of an itinerary for 160 people (80 room). All our itineraries are completely bespoke and subject to suitability and availability.
